

FIVE SENATORS TO FIX TARIFF.

Aldrich, Hanna, O. H. Platt, Spooner and Allison Here to See Roosevelt.

REVISION IS PLANNED.

They Will Confer at Oyster Bay To-Morrow on the Proposed Changes in the Schedules.

Senators William Boyd Allison, of Iowa, and Nelson W. Aldrich, of Rhode Island, reached New York to-day and joined Senator Marcus A. Hanna, of Ohio, and Senator John C. Spooner, of Wisconsin, and Senator Orville H. Platt, of Connecticut, who were waiting for them.

These five members of the United States Senate—the most powerful quartet in all that body, commonly called the "Big Five"—in the inner political circle of the Senate—will journey to Oyster Bay to-morrow to meet President Roosevelt.

From an authentic source The Evening World learns authoritatively that the chief object of this remarkable conference is to take up the question of tariff revision primarily to reach the trusts.

President Roosevelt and the men who are his chief lieutenants in the administration are said to have reached the conclusion that the trust question and its application to tariff revision must be the paramount one of the next campaign if it is not sooner eliminated.

The five Senators who have been selected by the President for this preliminary discussion of the most important question directly confronting him are peculiarly fitted for the task.

Senator Allison represents the Republicans of the Middle West and the great Northwest on all questions affecting the tariff.

Senator Spooner, of Wisconsin, represents the lumber, iron ore and mining interests of the Lake State region.

Senator Platt, of Connecticut, is sponsor for the tobacco growers, the leather interests and the cotton spinners.

Senator Hanna represents the manufacturing interests of the Ohio Valley States, and as Chairman of the Republican National Committee, has general knowledge of how tariff revision is regarded by the rank and file.

Senator Aldrich represents the great manufacturing interests of the New England States and the United States.

Without the consent of these five men the President cannot hope to secure any tariff legislation from Congress.

With the action of any two of them any tariff measure which had received his approval could be sidetracked or indefinitely held.

Allison is surprised. Senator Allison is at the Hotel Algonquin to-day. He made the surprising statement that he did not know there were four United States Senators in town waiting to visit the President at Oyster Bay to-morrow.

"It is a fact," he said, "that I did not know that Senators Hanna, Spooner, Aldrich and Platt, of Connecticut, were in New York on the way to see the President to-morrow. I am going to see him at his invitation, and he did not say that others were to be there."

"Is tariff reform to be discussed at your meeting with the President?" Senator Allison was asked.

"I could not say what will be discussed. I suppose we shall talk politics, but we see no reason why we should talk about tariff reform."

The political outlook is regarded as favorable to the Republican party all over the country. In Iowa we expect to re-elect all the Republican Congressmen. In fact, we have what might be called fights on with the Democrats only in two or three districts. Elsewhere it is a foregone conclusion.

DIDN'T HEAR THE TRAIN.

Man Who Walked on Central Tracks Is Killed.

Joseph P. Schroeder, of Terrace View avenue, Marble Hill, was struck by a New York Central freight train at the Riverdale station early this morning. He was knocked down and dragged under the train.

When the train had been stopped the body was taken from between the trucks after they had been raised by jackscrews. It was sent to the Kingsbridge police station, from where the coroner was notified. The engineer said that Schroeder was walking on the tracks and evidently did not hear the train approaching. He tried to stop the train, but it was too heavy and going too fast.

FEARS FOR MISSING WOMAN.

Friends of Louise Wendler Think Some Harm Has Befallen Her.

Louise Wendler, twenty-seven years old, of No. 325 East Fifty-third street, is reported missing. She has not been seen since Thursday, and her friends fear harm has happened to her.

She is five feet four inches high, with light complexion, brown hair and gray eyes.

DIES AT HIS DESK.

Herman Westink, forty-nine years old, a clerk living in White Plains, died suddenly in the office of the Consolidated Gas Company, at No. 4 Irving place, this morning, from heart disease.

TWENTY THOUSAND NEIGHBORS OF PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT GREET HIM.

Nassau County Turns Out with Bunting, Bands of Music and Cannons' Salute to Honor Head of the Nation.

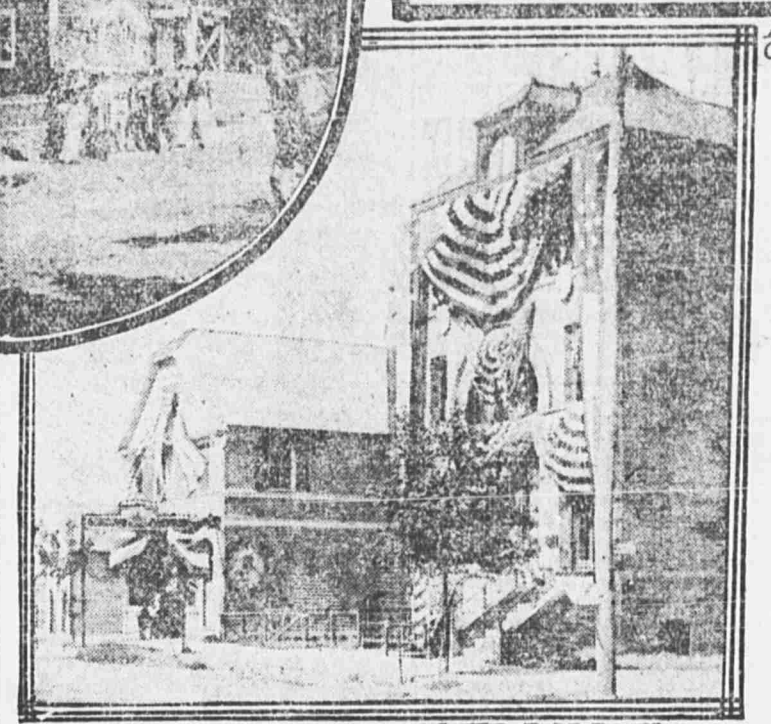

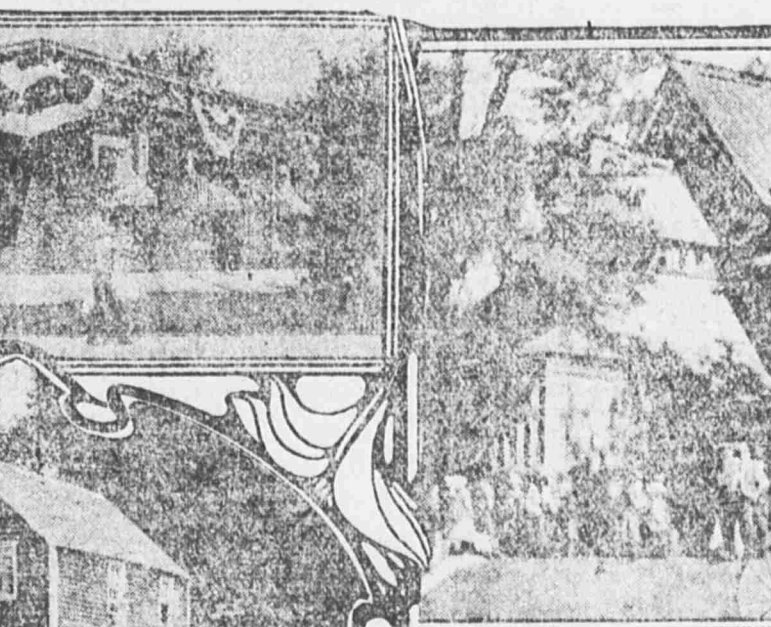

(Special to The Evening World.)

OYSTER BAY, L. I., Sept. 15.—It is just a year to-day since Theodore Roosevelt became President of the United States, hence the big demonstration here in which the President is the central figure seems especially fitting.

This is the greatest day in the history of Oyster Bay, and the village is jammed, every train adding to the throng that swirls through the principal streets and out to Sagamore Hill. It is expected that probably 15,000 to 20,000 persons will pass before the President.

The celebration began with a salute of twenty-one guns at 7 o'clock by the Oyster Bay Armory Battery, at Casino Beach. At noon the Hickeyville Battery was on hand for the midday salute. Meanwhile special excursion trains unloaded visitors at the little station.

Oyster Bay presented a gala front to the visitors. Pictures of the President were everywhere. Audrey street and East Main street for a mile and a half from the station were alive with American flags hung from ropes stretched across the thoroughfares. The Cove Neck Road up to the foot of Sagamore Hill was similarly decorated.

Baymen and farmers wandered into town and gaped with astonishment at the profusion of flags that completely hid the grocery store where the Town Clerk makes his headquarters. The bank building where the President has his summer capital sported two broad bands of bunting diagonally across its expansive three-story facade.

The little frame post-office, which has been almost inundated by the Presidential mail, was covered all over with red, white and blue bunting. Fishers' Hall, where the President votes, was also in gala dress. In the village square, where East Main street and South street converge, the colors flew proudly from a liberty pole. On East Main street the Townsend homestead, which has been in existence since 1740, wore the grandest dress of flags and bunting since its occupants celebrated the nation's birthday in 1776.

While the visitors were enjoying the decorations and Nassau County has seen nothing finer in the memory of the oldest inhabitant, the Shackelford Band began a promenade concert at 9 o'clock in the public square. Vendors of red lemonade, pop corn and chewing candy helped along the rustic gaily, while the secret service operators and a squad of Capt. Titus's detectives suppressed the gentry who had subterfuge of separating the county folk from their money.

Promptly at 1:30 o'clock the real celebration got under way when Sheriff Jerome B. Johnson, of Nassau County, lined up the 300 deputies he had speared in for the occasion. Among them were all the prominent residents of the county not on the executive and reception committee. Two of the proudest deputies were Theodore Jr. and Kermit Roosevelt, both of whom were de-great extent. He was seventy-four years old.

He was recently succeeded on the Supreme bench by Oliver Wendell Holmes, of this State.

Justice Gray handed his resignation to the President two months ago, and last month it was accepted. The Justice had suffered a second stroke of apoplexy and felt that he could not again undertake court work. He retired on his full salary of $10,000 a year. With one exception his service in the Supreme Court, twenty years, was longer than that of any of his associates.

Horace Gray was appointed by President Arthur. He was born in Boston on March 21, 1828. He attended the schools of Boston, and in 1846 was graduated from Harvard. He then spent many months in European travel. On his return he entered the Harvard Law School, where he was graduated in 1850. His practical law education was obtained in the office of Judge Lowell, and he was admitted to the Massachusetts bar in 1851. While still a young man he was a delegate to the Free Soil convention of 1848, and was associated with Charles Sumner and Charles Francis Adams. His first position was that of a reporter of the decisions of the Supreme Court of his State, to which he was appointed on March 3, 1857. On Aug. 24, 1864, he was appointed Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of Massachusetts by Gov. Andrew, and in 1873 he succeeded Reuben A. Chapman as Chief Justice.

Justice Gray's next honor was his appointment to the Supreme Court of the United States on Dec. 20, 1881. His judicial deliverances have included opinions of courts-martial and the jurisdiction of the United States over the Guano Islands.

He astonished Washington society at the age of sixty by marrying. He had a bachelor.

terminated they would make an arrest if they had to "pull" their little sister for disorderly conduct.

March to Sagamore Hill.

The deputies marched to Fisher's Hall, where lunch was served, and then began the march to Sagamore Hill. Bands of music from Hickeyville, Rockaway and Huntington joined the Oyster Bay musicians in an exhilarating march. Some of the villagers trudged after the deputies on foot, others rode in the village hacks, many in the market wagons which the gardeners who make the daily ride to Wallabout Market, Brooklyn, turned to advantage to-day as pleasure vehicles.

At the cavalcade of 20,000 visitors reached Sagamore Hill the deputies spread out and formed a line along the road leading from the foot of the hill to the veranda of the President's residence. President Roosevelt stood in the center of the piazza directly before the front doors. Beside him was Mrs. Roosevelt, his friend and neighbor, Frank C. Travers, general chairman of the reception; Grand Beekman, chairman of the reception committee; W. C. Roosevelt, chairman of the entertainment committee, and A. L. Cheney, chairman of the press committee.

Each met with a hearty handshake from the President, and to the hundreds whom he knew personally he had a hearty word of greeting. His smile flashed continually through the hours of the long cavalcade. The cavalcade passed on, they emerged on the south lawn, where cake and lemonade were served from refreshment tents. Every one was invited to keep his glass which was inscribed "Sagamore Hill, Sept. 15."

During the afternoon members of the Meadowbrook colony drove over in four-hands from Westbury, ten miles to the southwest. Heading the delegation was O. H. P. Belmont, and in the procession of tally-hos were Stanley Mortimer, E. T. Morgan, Samuel W. Spitta, and J. Kent Smith.

Another aristocratic delegation came from the Red Spring colony, which was headed by J. Rogers Maxwell, president of the Jersey Central Room with wife Percy Chubb, the Messrs. Pratt and E. R. La Due.

CZAR WILL IGNORE VATICAN ON VISIT.

Minister to Holy See Will Be Absent from Rome While Nicholas Is Guest of Victor Emmanuel.

ROME, Sept. 15.—The announcement that the czar when he returns the visit of King Victor Emmanuel will not call on the Pope has seriously disturbed the Vatican. It is said that the Russian Minister to the Holy See (C. A. Gouba-stoff) will purposely be absent from Rome during the sojourn of the czar here so as to render it easier to ignore the Vatican.

Papal diplomacy is doing its utmost to prevent such an awkward incident, which is attributed to the desire of the czar to show his displeasure at the Pope's action in withdrawing the Papal Nuncio from The Hague because he was not invited to take part in the Peace Congress.

Replying to the request of the French Ambassador to the Vatican (M. A. A. Nisard), who wished to secure for a French newspaperman an interview with the Pope, the Papal Secretary of State, Cardinal Rampolla, in explaining the impossibility of so doing, said:

"The Pope resolved months ago not to utter a word himself and ordered us not to utter a word which might be interpreted either for or against French policy or serve the interests of party politics."

FALCONIO TO REPRESENT VATICAN AT WASHINGTON

Finally Selected for Position of Apostolic Delegate to United States—Is a Citizen of This Republic.

ROME, Sept. 15.—The Vatican has definitely decided to send the Most Rev. Diomedo Falconio, the Apostolic delegate for the Dominion of Canada, to Washington as Papal delegate in the United States.

The Archbishop of Manila and the three vacant bishoprics in the Philippines will not be filled until Mgr. Guidi the Apostolic Delegate, arrives there and reports to the Vatican on the subject.

Monsignor Falconio is an American citizen, though he was born in Italy. He is now about sixty years old, and has been Apostolic Delegate to Canada since 1899.

Prior to that appointment he was Archbishop of Acerenza and Maltara, in Italy.

He first came to America in 1865, and became a teacher in the Franciscan College of St. Bonaventura, at Albany, N. Y. He served many years as a professor and finally as president of this institution. While engaged in that work he became citizen of the United States, and voted for President in 1872. Subsequently he did parish work in this city at St. Anthony's Church, in Sullivan street.

In 1892, when he had returned to Italy to see his aged parents, the Pope made him an Archbishop.

Monsignor Falconio joined the Order of St. Francis in 1890, and was ordained a priest shortly after he came to America.

In his various appointments in the Franciscan order he was shown marked ability. In 1896, when Monsignor Sattoli, the first Apostolic Delegate to the United States, was about to return to Italy, Monsignor Falconio was talked of as his successor, but the appointment went to Monsignor Martini.

POLICE MOURN THE DEATH OF "BOOTS."

Immortelles on Display in Eldridge Street Station to Attest Patrolmen's Sorrow Over Cat's Demise.

"Boots" is dead and the policemen of all ranks in the Eldridge street station are mourning. Sergt. John McDermott is particularly so, for he was sponsor of "Boots" and the cat's first and steadfast police friend.

A small wreath of white roses, with the name "Boots" in immortelles in the center, that stood on the desk of the station-house this morning, was testimony of the regard in which the cat was held. Day and night "Boots" could usually be found perched on the desk gravely watching the sergeant at work.

Eight months ago a woman member of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals found a small kitten mewling at the corner of Grand and Canal streets. She picked up the kitten and carried it to the station house, where she requested Sergeant McDermott to make some home, and made herself so much at home, that before the men knew it they were much attached to the cat and would not have listened to her being sent away. The kitten reposed the trust in the policemen and as soon as one of them sat down would sprawl on his feet and go to sleep.

After "Boots" began to get big she had many fights with "Pete, the Tom," who had long been a mouser of doubtful reputation in the police room, but after a while they arrived at an amicable understanding. "Pete" taking charge of the station house in the rear of the station and "Boots" mounting guard on the sergeant's desk.

Jersey City Man's Wife Brings Suit and Has Him Locked Up that He May Not Escape Court Decision.

John Satter, who lives in Jersey City, was to-day arrested by Deputy Sheriff Wajering and locked up in Ludlow Street Jail, on an order signed by Justice Bischoff, of the Supreme Court, directing him to give bail in $1,000 in an action for separation brought against him by his wife, Josephine Satter.

Mrs. Satter alleged her husband was residing outside the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court of this State, and unless compelled to give security would remain out of the jurisdiction, so as to evade the results of a judgment.

She alleges that he is a baker and is also the owner of an apartment house, from which he receives $100 a month. She says that ever since their marriage on July 9, 1892, Satter has continuously ill-treated her. She some years ago threatened to bring a separation suit against him, but he promised to mend his ways, and they went to live in Jersey City. After three weeks his conduct grew worse than ever. He also vented his anger upon their two children and wanted her eldest son, nine years old, to give evidence that she was not leading a proper life.

She finally was compelled, in order to protect herself from serious bodily injury, to leave him and take her children to live with an aunt of hers, on whom she is now dependent.

AGED WOMAN RUN DOWN.

Mrs. Mary Whittington Narrowly Escaped Death.

Mrs. Mary Whittington, seventy-five years old, of No. 6 West Ninety-first street, to-day came near being killed by a horse.

She was waiting for an Eighth avenue car when a butcher's wagon, driven by P. Shannon, of No. 61 West Fortieth street, came along at a rapid rate. The horse knocked her down and stepped on her.

Patrolman Unger sent for an ambulance, but when it arrived Mrs. Whittington declared she was unhurt. She called a cab and was driven to her home. Mrs. Whittington refused to make a complaint against the driver.

COACH RAN OVER HIM.

Police of the West One Hundredth street station report Robert Booth of No. 763 Amsterdam avenue, was knocked from a coach at Ninety-seventh street by an Amsterdam avenue car this morning. The wheels of the coach went over him inflicting injuries to his head and shoulders. He was taken to J. Hood Wright Hospital.
